Admission Guidelines for Students

April 2027 Admission

Tokyo University of Agriculture and Technology

Admission Policy of the Department of Advanced Interdisciplinary Science

The Department of Advanced Interdisciplinary Science seeks applicants who possess the qualities, attributes, and abilities required to achieve the department's educational objectives and to successfully engage in its curriculum. Specifically, applicants are expected to:

- Have master's-level academic competence in their area of specialization and have acquired the relevant knowledge and technical skills. Applicants should also demonstrate a strong motivation to acquire interdisciplinary expertise and advanced skills based on the perspectives and methodologies of multiple academic disciplines.
- Demonstrate a strong willingness to acquire advanced and up-to-date knowledge and skills in information, digital, and mathematical technologies relevant to their field of specialization.
- Possess an understanding of the complex issues facing contemporary society and demonstrate the ability and motivation to identify and formulate diverse challenges independently. Applicants should be eager to develop the negotiation, critical thinking, collaborative learning, communication, and analytical skills necessary to address and solve such challenges.
- Understand international trends and emerging needs in academia and industry, and possess the fundamental English-language proficiency and strong communication skills required to play an active role in the global community.

Important Notice

You must contact your potential supervisor in advance to confirm your research theme and examination schedule. Additionally, if you are accepted, you must contact your supervisor to discuss your future research plan.
